

DISTANCE LEARNING COURSES – FALL 2020

TH101: Doctrine I | Tue 9:00-11:45 AST | Curtis Scott

Doctrine I is an introduction to the essential Biblical doctrines. This course will focus on the Bible, the existence of God, salvation, and the church as the body of Christ to provide strategies for defending the Truth and encourage a desire to study God's Word independently.

TH204: Christology | Tue 9:00-11:45 AST | Lester Mitchell

Christology is a comprehensive study of the person, Jesus Christ, and His teachings recorded in Matthew, Mark and John. This course will outline the chronological events of Christ's life, his divine identity and his ministry and emphasize the relevance of his sermons and parables to present day Christ-like living.

PT101: Spiritual Formation/Holiness | Tue 9:00-11:45 AST | Jeff Tracy

Spiritual Formation/Holiness is an introduction to the Biblical definition and principles of holiness. This course will discuss the purpose of pastoral guidance, inward and outward holiness, and need for separation as well as how to exercise control over our sinful nature as Christians and ministers of the gospel.

BL302: Pauline Epistles | Wed 9:00-11:45 AST | Raymart Lugue

Pauline Epistles is an outline of the writings of Apostle Paul from Galatians to Philemon including the chronology in relation to the New Testament. This course will provide understanding of the letters through a historical and cultural background of each epistle and the application for present day Christianity.

HT201: Church History | Wed 9:00-11:45 AST | Jonathan McNair

Church History is an overview of significant events and notable persons throughout the history of Christianity. This course will discuss the development of major doctrines from the apostolic age to modern times, including their founders and basis of origin, with a detailed focus on the heritage of the Pentecostal experience.

BLA101: Elementary Ancient Greek I | Wed 1:00-2:00 AST| Lorne Cheverie

This course introduces the ancient Greek language and will examine its alphabet, basic grammar, and vocabulary. This introduction presupposes no previous knowledge of the language.

BLA302: Reading Biblical Hebrew | Wed 2:00-3:55 AST | Lorne Cheverie

An intensive course designed to complete the study of basic grammar and to begin the development of skills in the reading the Tanakh.

Prerequisites: Elementary Biblical Hebrew I and Elementary Biblical Hebrew II

BL203: Leviticus and Hebrews | Thu 9:00-11:45 AST | Brent Carter

Leviticus and Hebrews is a comprehensive study of the correlation of the two books through background and doctrinal content. This course will analyze the person and work of Christ found in the teaching of Hebrews and the typology of Leviticus providing an understanding of the symbolic teaching of New Testament salvation found in the Old Testament.

TH203: Biblical Interpretation | Thu 9:00-11:45 AST | Sean Ward

Biblical Interpretation is an overview of common perspectives contrary to Christianity and the methodology of defending the Bible against secular human reasoning. This course will provide resources and knowledge to defend Biblical truth accurately while engaging in practical exercises to develop confidence and debate skills in both written and oral communication.

BL101: Old Testament Survey | Thu 1:00-3:45 AST | Cameron Price

Old Testament Survey is an introduction to the historical background and contemporary culture of the Old Testament. This course will include the chronology, the authors, and the relation between the books to illustrate a central message and modern application of this Testament.

HU101: Introduction to Sociology | Thu 1:00-3:45 AST | Dave Ferrell

This course will give you a basic foundation in the field and knowledge of Sociology, as related to Theology. This course will challenge each student to understand our world as Christians from a Sociological point of view. We will look at the economy, politics, religion, family, and many more of the forces or structures that influence culture, ethnic relations, poverty, and inequality.

BL201: Luke and Acts | Fri 9:00-11:45 AST | Bill Gowan

Luke and Acts is an overview of the two books in the New Testament written by Luke. This course will provide a historical background of the life of Christ and the birth of the early church while emphasizing the apostolic doctrine and the parallel experience necessary for salvation today.