

DISTANCE LEARNING COURSES – SPRING 2021

BL202 - Poetic and Wisdom Books | Tue 9:00-11:45 AST | Michael Wittmeier

Poetic and Wisdom Books is a comprehensive study of the Old Testament poetical writings found in Job, Psalms, Proverbs, Ecclesiastes, and Song of Solomon. This course will endeavour to outline the historical and cultural backgrounds of each book and author while encouraging the application of their message and principles to a current Christian lifestyle.

CO101 - Communication and Preaching | Tue 9:00-11:45 AST | Jonathan McNair

Communication and Preaching is the overview of the preparation and delivery of effective sermons. This course will outline the calling of a preacher and provide the framework of a variety of techniques for writing and delivery as well as a practical component for receiving constructive feedback to aid in ministry development.

TH301 - Comparative Religions | Wed 9:00-11:45 AST | Raymart Lugue

Comparative Religions is an overview of major world religions, contemporary cults, and predominant sects of Christianity including their histories and distinctive doctrines. This course provides insight into a variety of belief systems while equipping students with a scriptural perspective to have faith discussions with adherents of various religions.

TH302 - Pneumatology | Thu 9:00-11:45 AST | Lester Mitchell

Pneumatology is a comprehensive study of the Holy Spirit through scripture focusing on the nature, the gifts, and the fruit of the Spirit and the relevance to spiritual ministry. This course will aim to provide Christian life application including personal growth and the knowledge of prayer strategies with those pursuing salvation.

BL301 - General Epistles | Fri 9:00-11:45 AST | Jonathan McNair

General Epistles is an outline of the books from James to Jude and I & II Corinthians including the chronology during the writings. This course will provide understanding of the events of the New Testament through a historical and cultural background of each epistle and the application for present day Christianity.

PH201 - Leadership and Ethics | Fri 9:00-11:45 AST | Mel Calhoun

Leadership and Ethics is an overview of the definition and practice of Biblical leadership and the application in current church organization. This course will provide guidance in practical skills such as time management, organization and problem solving, while encouraging the development of a positive attitude and a teamwork approach to ministry.

HU102 - Introduction to Psychology | Thu 9:00-11:45 AST | Rachel Cole

BL102 - New Testament Survey | Thu 1:00-3:45 AST | Cameron Price

New Testament Survey is an introduction to the historical background and contemporary culture of the New Testament. This course will include the chronology, the authors, and the relation between the books to illustrate a central message and modern application of this Testament.